Storyboards

Subsequently, we continued with the planning of the different wireframes that would be used in the exhibition. We decided to structure our information around three main axes: environment, intelligence (which also integrated aspects of evolution), and emotions. From this point, we developed storyboards to define how we wanted to tell a story through these three axes, with the goal of communicating the information in a clear, fast, and engaging way.

ant - human - general ant - human - emotion - intro ant - human - intelligence -